

Thermal-Lube's analytical experience and technologies have been applied to every stage in the development and validation cycles of engineered products. Providing fast and accurate industry standard measurements of fluid and additive degradation, acid and base numbers, water and moisture content and fuel dilution, Thermal-Lube's in-house analytical capabilities and analytical equipment are the compliment to any R&D team.

Applications for Research & Development